

Hand trucks for professionals – transport devices from a modular aluminium system

Frequently, heavy and bulky goods must be moved and handled by one person. As a consequence, spinal problems and injuries can occur. Here, it is helpful to have a rugged companion in the shape of a lightweight and ergonomic hand truck.

Since decades, hand trucks from the well-known supplier Espresso in Kassel, Germany, are in worldwide use by professionals in the beverage and foodstuffs industries, in warehouses, with parcel distribution services, plus many other applications including mobile use in vans and delivery trucks.

Moreover, the ergonomic design of Espresso hand trucks gives top priority to the users' health and safety, resulting in positive economic effects.

The aluminium modular system

Professional hand trucks are built from high-quality components such as uprights, footplates, skids, and ergonomical handles. In this way, the aluminium modular system provides the basis for specific, application-oriented transport devices.

As opposed to conventional fixed constructions that limit the application range and involve considerable costs for maintenance and service, Espresso's modular approach is rational and economical.

Another advantage of the modular approach:

Should a worn part have to be replaced – no problem! Every component is also available as a spare part.

In this way, transport equipment from Espresso is always kept in top condition, and its useful life is multiplied several times.

What's more, many optional add-ons, usually fit many different versions and convert a standard hand truck into a specialized piece of equipment within the shortest time.

Application-specific solutions, e.g. water bottle holder or a frame for moving stacked chairs, put a finishing touch to the comprehensive product range.
