

Beverage logistics need to be even more efficient!

With our original aluminium hand trucks, beverage transport & delivery are faster and more professional.

Increasingly often, beverage crates must be moved and handled by a single person. This frequently leads to spinal problems. Here, it is helpful to have a rugged companion in the shape of a professional lightweight and ergonomic hand truck. For more than 50 years, hand trucks from the well-known supplier EXPRESSO in Kassel, Germany, are in worldwide use by professionals in the beverage and foodstuffs industries, with parcel distribution services, plus many other applications including mobile use in vans and delivery trucks. Moreover, the ergonomic design of EXPRESSO hand trucks gives top priority to the users' health and safety, resulting in positive economic effects.

The original aluminium modular system

Confirmed thousandfold in practice, the quality of professional hand trucks built from our aluminium modular system – made in Germany – and the wide selection of high-quality components such as uprights, footplates, skids, and safety handles provide the basis for individual, application-oriented transport equipment. Hereby, EXPRESSO attaches particular importance to the perceptibly better and consistent material quality, the extremely rugged design, and precise assembly of the hand trucks.

As opposed to conventional fixed constructions that limit the application range and involve considerable costs for maintenance and service, EXPRESSO's modular approach is rational and economical.

Another important advantage of the modular system: Should a worn part have to be replaced – no problem! Every component is also available as a spare part. This ensures that equipment from EXPRESSO is always kept in top condition, and its useful life is multiplied several times. What's more, many optional add-ons convert a standard hand truck into a specialized piece of equipment within the shortest time. Application-specific solutions such as keg or water bottle holders put a finishing touch to the comprehensive product range.
